Abolishes Public Cup in Interstate Conveyances.

Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh with one swoop abolished the time-honored public drinking cup from railroad cars, vessels and other conveyances operated in interstate traffic and from depots and waiting rooms of common carriers.

This sweeping order against "any drinking cup, glass or vessel for common use," effective immediately, is in the interest of the nation's health and was the direct result of an investigation by the United States Public Health Service—a branch of the Treasury Department—which holds the public drinking cup to be a menace as a carrier of disease. A drinking cup, it is said, may contain thousands of bacteria from disease-infected persons.

Mr. MacVeagh's action constituted an amendment to the interstate quarantine regulations. Sherman Allen, assistant secretary of the treasury, stirred by the revelations of the public health service and the fact that twenty-six States already have laws forbidding the use of the common drinking cup, recommended to move to Mr. MacVeagh and was sustained by the Solicitor of the Treasury Department as to the secretary's legal power to make the order.

Treasury officials recommend the traveler equip himself with a clean sheet of white paper which by adroit folding can be turned into an impromptu drinking cup. The "soldier's cup" of childhood days will easily serve the purpose.

Common carriers may now provide drinking cups only in case they are thoroughly cleansed by washing in boiling water after use by each individual.

Knowledge.

Sometimes one wonders if the world has forever lost its sense of peace and beauty, and if we are to whizz and yell and advertise till the end of time. Will simple pleasures seem tame and quiet ways unsuccessful? Or are we mad only for a little term, and will we return to spacious and serene things after this fever cools? Shall we soon turn from the clatter of these days, the temporal display, the unreal values set on position and success, the scorn of what is simple-hearted and generous, the haste and noise that drown out all gentle voices? It is time to recover our knowledge of the wind on the hills, the silent passage of a summer's day, the swift wind-swept procession of early autumn clouds, the sea in calm and storm, with the breaking waves that wear away the beach.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

The tax books have been in my hands for several weeks and your taxes are now due. Heretofore the Sheriff has not advertised real estate for sale for unpaid taxes, and in this manner has been carrying a great many people. In the future all taxes that are not paid within the time allowed by law, property will be advertised for sale, as I must protect my bondsmen. If your property is listed for sale for taxes you will have only yourself to blame, so come in and settle at once. W. F. CROOKS,

Isaiah v. 7-16—Nov. 10.
"Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that tarry late into the night, till wine inflame."—Is. 11.

TODAY'S lesson had its primary force in connection with the affairs of natural Israel in the days of the Prophet. But when we remember that Natural Israel types Christendom, we find a value to this lesson very pertinent to our time. "And He looked for judgment [justice], but behold, oppression; for righteousness and, behold, a cry of distress." As to the national cry and the reason for it, see verse 8, which reads: "Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth!" Here we perceive that a spirit of selfishness prevailed in Israel's day, as it does today; as then property was disposed to accumulate in the hands of the more successful, so it is today. As then landlordism took possession of vast areas, neglectful of the fact that "the earth hath the Lord given unto the children of men," and not merely to a few, so is it today.

A Time of Trouble.
Divine disapproval of human hardness, selfishness and neglect of poorer brethren, and forgetfulness of the fact that we are all children of one blood, amenable to the laws of the same Creator, brought upon the Israelites Divine judgments. We believe that the Scriptures with equal clearness tell of a great "time of trouble" now impending over the world, especially over Christendom—a time particularly mentioned by St. James, saying, "Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for the misery that shall come upon you." This trouble is mentioned in today's study, verse 9: "The Lord of Hosts said in my hearing, Of a truth many houses shall be desolate, even great and fair, without inhabitant." If we rightly appreciate what the Scriptures foresaw respecting times not far ahead of us, we will see that many of the great and rich will be in a sad plight in their countryside homes, as will be some of the poorer in the congested cities, for the time of trouble, it is declared, will be upon all.

Music, Revelry, Intoxication.
The text given us for today's lesson comes next in our study. In the days of Israel's prophecy many of the rich indulged in intoxicating liquors, music, revelry, etc., to their own injury as well as to the neglect of their responsibilities to God. They asked, "Am I my brother's keeper?" even as Cain asked this question. By their accumulated wealth they had more than heart could wish, while others were needy.

And how about today, is it the same? We answer, Yes, and no. With many it is the same exactly, but with a considerable number of the wealthy of our day it is very different, we are glad to say. Continually we have evidences that some of the wealthy consider their possessions as a trust from the Almighty, to be used in His service, and for the sake of humanity. But alas, there are comparatively few. The majority of the rich, like the majority of the poor, are selfish to the core.

When the selfish rich and the selfish poor shall join issue in a great struggle, as the Bible clearly declares they will do, then the world will see the time of trouble prophesied—"such as never was since there was a nation"—a time of trouble which Jesus declares will never be again, because following that great trouble, upon the ashes of the present civilization, Messiah will establish the Kingdom of God, for the blessing of all the families of the earth—the rich, the poor.

Thus Socialism, according to the Bible, will be the ultimate condition of the earth. Socialists, not aware of this teaching of God's Word, or if aware of it doubting it, propose to take over in the interest of all mankind the great blessings which are now in the hands of the comparatively few. To appear dangerous, impractical. To us it appears as the Scriptures indicate, that failing to accomplish their benevolent designs, Socialists will become bitter anarchists, and plunge themselves and the whole world into the most awful trouble ever known. We need the conversion of the world to a heart-harmony with God and the principles of righteousness.

Will this ever come? Ah, yes! The mouth of the Lord hath spoken it! But it cannot come through any power of ours. "Wait ye upon Me, saith the Lord, until that Day!" "For then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord, to serve Him with one consent." In His own time, following the great time of trouble, God will humble the world. Meantime the elect saints will be glorified, and with Messiah, constitute the long-promised Kingdom of God for the blessing of humanity.

Veal and the High Cost of Living.

A movement must be organized in America to conserve and increase beef animals. Not only must feeders see to it that the animal goes to the packing plant with the maximum amount of pounds, produced at the lowest possible cost, but a movement must be started to prevent the killing of calves for veal. In times past, calves, eggs, butter and similar farm products have gone into the market with too little concern as to actual cost of production. There was a living on the farm; the calf was for sale; the several or more cows produced enough milk for the family and the calves. The four or five dollars which the calf commands in the market has been just like finding the few dollars. The regular dairymen are still selling the calf to avoid the cost of milk feeding, and with little thought that cheaper foods will raise the calf, and at a substantial profit. The result is droves and droves of calves slaughtered for veal, that if raised and fed would overcome the present shortage in beef animals.

When the fish become thinned out in the streams, when the deer, the quail and other game become scarce, game laws prohibit fishing or hunting. Under such laws the marketer is stopped from buying a quail, even though the bird may have been raised as a domestic fowl and is offered for sale by the owner. Such remedy, if the laws are enforced, together with favorable conditions, produces abundant game for future hunting seasons. In order to carry out the game laws it is illegal to kill rabbits, except in the open season. Such laws are primarily in the interest of the hunter, but have been justified in the courts as competent exercises of a State's police power.

It would be regarded as governmental paternalism to apply such an effective remedy against the slaughtering of calves under one year old. If the courts held protective game laws to be right and necessary, a law to protect and promote the future beef supply would certainly be justified. Aside from how to do it, however, methods must be put to work to take veal, at least for the present, out of the meat market. The first move is a better knowledge as to economical calf feeding and the teaching of dairymen, who supply the veal market, that the calf presents a profitable opportunity for converting grass and feeds into beef. The knowledge of profitable calf feeding is well established, and to be had by all who wish to take this advanced, conserving step towards increasing the beef supply. —Lexington Herald.
